

IN THE SPECIFICATION

Please correct the specification as follows:

Please add the following paragraph at the end of current paragraph 19. The text is taken from par. 0011 of 20040249650, which is a national phase of PCT/IL02/00593, incorporated by reference into the instant application:

Screen events are events identified by a system in response to one or more of the following: actions performed by the agent in association with the use of a system as viewed by the agent on the screen display including but not limited to keyboard press, mouse click, etc.; data entered into all or part (Region Of Interest) of the display or non-displayed window (window might not be in focus); operating system screen related events. Such as the Esc button pressed, etc; pre-defined multi- sequence events. Such as entering the amount in window application A can generate an update in certain reduction field in Application B. Only these dependant occurrences would yield either input or trigger for the analysis process.
